JOPLIN, Mo. - The Missouri Center for Missouri Health Care for All held a press conference in Joplin on Wednesday. Dottie Elbert says the state is like many people falling through the cracks as it is, and failure of lawmakers to expand Missouri Medicaid will leave thousands more without insurance.

Members of several other groups had spokespersons at the event as well. The setting was Unity Church, who's minister, Gordon Keyler, says it's the Christian thing to do. "Well if you think about Jesus, the way he operated, he would go into a village, the first thing he would do is heal people, he would feed people, then he would teach. Can we do no less?" Rev. Keyler explained.

"We came together today to talk to the public and legislators to ask them to consider expanding Medicaid in the state, coming up with Missouri solution," added Elbert. "To help all most vulnerable, we should be expanding Medicaid, not cutting a system that saves lives and quality of life."

State lawmakers don't anticipate there being enough funding or support for the issue to be passed this session.
